2007 BARD WINTER SERIES

ABOUT BARD

Bard is about mythology and its relevance and possibility. Bard started in 1995 and runs a Summer School on Clare Island each year. The events are participative and include presentations about myth and story. Each Bard includes entertainment from the Islanders with storytelling and a Feasta at the end of the week.

Through Nine Waves

ABOUT 'THE NINE WAVES' SERIES

This series is an opportunity to experience the insight and wisdom of the Myths of the Irish Tradition. We will explore the journey of Amergin who brought Celtic culture to Ireland. This time, following John Moriarty's proposal, we will pass 'Through Nine Waves', each wave an initiation into the wonder and wisdom of a particular Irish Myth.

MORDHAIL UISNEACH

LOCATION – BELVEDERE HOUSE

The Winter Series will take place in the wonderful Belvedere House, Mullingar near Uisneach. Belvedere is building a strong reputation for its involvement with Myth and Legend and is ideally situated close to many places with Mythic Associations. To hold a gathering 'Mordhail' at the centre 'Uisneach' is time honoured in the Irish Tradition.

This is a series of Workshops that are both self contained and connected.

WHO SHOULD ATTEND

Anyone with an interest in Irish Myth or the roots of Irish Culture or who simply enjoys great stories. You don't need to know the myths. Participants have always included a great mix of the newcomers to myth with those with long interest. The style is more explorative and participative than simply listening to presentations or lectures.
